M.R. James' much-sought-after descriptive catalogue of the manuscript collection in the library of Eton College.

Brand has been warned never to enter Dragon Territory, but when his younger sister is taken, he has no choice but to enter the forbidden area and rescue her. Once there, Brand discovers that Dragon Territory isn't what he thought it would be, and neither are the dragons that live there.

You can tell a lot about a dragon by their hoard. Not the shiny one, the other one. The one where they keep their favorite things. Some dragons keep a private stash of dwarven-wrought artifices, and others tapestries that run from wall-to-wall and corner-to-corner. The Dragon Lord himself has a library. A library that devours halls and caves, filling them with every kind of book and codex and scroll. These are the stories that fill his favorite shelf. Of course they're his favorites-they're all about dragons. Pull these stories down. Breathe in the vanilla scent that only comes from the oldest books. Savor the writing. Trace your fingers over the calligraphy. Welcome to the finest library ever known. Featuring stories by Jilly Paddock, Joanna Hoyt, Claire Davon, J. Patrick Allen, T. Fox Dunham, Dorian Graves, Denarose Fukushima, Kelly A. Harmon, E.A. Fow, Robert W. Caldwell, and Jim Lee.

Once, Lola flew with a dragon. If she can become an ambassador to the dragons' realm, she might fly again, but first she must navigate life as an ordinary priestess. She's wholly devoted to the dragons, but some of her fellow priestesses are dragon-blind and corrupt. Worse, they think that Lola's devotions are actually just a sign of greed. The ambassador returns from the dragons' realm, too sick to fly again. Lola might have a chance to take her place, but her rival, Tiagasa, was raised in a prince's palace. Tiagasa thrives on political intrigue and gossip, and her lover is about to become governor of the city. Lola's few friends and allies aren't much more savvy than she is. Still, they hope to persuade the new governor to make Lola an ambassador so that the temple can be a true sanctuary of the dragons for a few years more.

father's new assignment in Sri Lanka may be no coincidence. As their quest begins in earnest, the lines between good and evil begin to blur. Vero will need to use every ounce of his training to take on not only the Devil and his hordes, but also Lilith, who may be lurking closer than anyone thinks.

World Treasures of the Library of Congress is a new series of three titles published to coincide with the ongoing World Treasures exhibition, which first opened in the summer of 2001.

Beginnings is the first volume in the series, and the first exhibition, and reveals how common themes have been treated in different cultures - be they African, Hindu, Hispanic, Tibetan, Islamic, Judeo-Christian or Native American - and is an exploration of how such cultures have dealt with the creation of the universe and explained the heavens and earth. Underlying these seemingly complex issues are three key questions: Where does it - the universe, the cosmos - all come from? How can we explain and order the universe and cope with it? How do we record the experience? These questions and the answers to them are presented in over 130 color images from the Library's collections ranging from a twelfth-century Taoist scroll painting of The Eight Immortals by Zhao Boju, to a Mesopotamian Incantation Bowl. Beginnings closes with a section that includes the earliest examples of writing and printing.

Blind. Outcast. Accursed. From the meanest of beginnings, greatness will rise. Abandoned at birth by her parents, Auli-Ambar is seen as a child blighted by a callous talon-stroke of fate. A worthless burden. She is blind, severely disfigured, and fit only for the most menial tasks. Then, a simple act of kindness changes her life. Flown to the Halls of the Dragons, the
